Wall and Ceiling Covering by Liora Manné

Liora Manné's wall coverings are created through her patented needle punch process. Polyester fibers are hand punched with a needle, much like the ancient art of felting to create a design. These small hand needles are used to entangle the fibers and bind them together. After the hand punching is complete, the fabric is put through a large needle punching machine which presses the fibers, flattening them and securing them together. No glue or sewing is used. Once the fabric has been completely needle punched, it is coated with a binder for durability. Nano silver particles are added making it antimicrobial. It is this process which makes the product mildew free and stain resistant.

- Cleaning is easy — vacuum, clean with soap and water. Steam clean if necessary.
- Can be made in panels to fit your specified size.
- Panel size can be made as wide as 13'6" and as long as the roll can be handled in shipping.

Liora Manné has created an artistic, durable and healthy product for hospitality, corporate, universities, health care, museums, libraries and much more. The possibilities are endless.

The image shows a wall covered in a dense, overlapping pattern of handwritten-style text. The text is written in a light, possibly gold or white, ink or paint on a dark, textured background. The words and phrases are arranged in a grid-like fashion, with each word appearing multiple times in a cursive, script font. The overall effect is a textured, almost three-dimensional wall of words. The text is slanted and appears to be part of a larger, repeating pattern that covers the entire visible surface of the wall.
